

Dear Researcher, Academic, Designer,

The 4T Design and Design History Society was established as a platform in İzmir in 2004 to strengthen collaboration among design disciplines and create a communication network for experience sharing at an academic level; on June 4 2014, it gained the status of an official association. Our society supports original research in design theory, practice, and history, aiming to foster interdisciplinary interaction through conferences, panels, and academic publications.

In particular, with its traditionally organized international symposium, 4T seeks to contribute to contemporary design literature and provide a new platform for academic discussions. With over 20 years of accumulated experience, 4T is based in İzmir but remains open to researchers, academics, and design professionals from across the globe.

As our membership and disciplinary diversity grow, we believe our influence will expand accordingly. We invite all institutions and individuals working in or contributing to the fields of design and design history to join us.

Yours truly,

Emre Yıldız, Chair
4T Design and Design History Society Association
